Khaled Hanafi: Strengthening Arab-Chinese Relations in the Field of the Digital Economy

The Secretary-General of the Union of Arab Chambers, Dr. Khaled Hanafi, called for "the necessity for the next stage to witness greater interest from the Arab and Chinese sides to strengthen cooperation relations in the field of digital economy and digitization in general. As well as paying attention to the clean energy sector, with a focus on the opportunities that exist in this field, as it is a fertile field for cooperation between the Arab countries and the People’s Republic of China, which is the largest trading partner with the Arab world, where the volume of trade between the two sides exceeds $200 billion."

Hanafi’s words came during a speech he delivered on the occasion of the 70th anniversary of the founding of CCPIT, which coincided with the convening of the World Trade and Investment Promotion Summit.

Hanafi pointed out that “although the balance of trade between the two sides tends to favor China in a small way, it is generally balanced, as there are great potentials for enhancing cooperation in the field of artificial intelligence, clean and renewable energy, as well as in the digital economy, this is the future that the Arab countries seek to lead vigorously, and in this field, China can contribute and participate in this qualitative leap for the Arab countries, in order to achieve common goals and interests.”

He noted that “regardless of the challenges the world faces today, and regardless of the circumstances facing the global economy, the Arab-Chinese relations continued and developed in a great and good way.” He explained that “the Arab world will witness an increase in demand for the development of infrastructure in the information sector, which means huge opportunities in the market for both sides. In addition to the fact that now, in light of the international consensus on the need to act in the field of combating climate change, it is necessary to expand the scope of reliance on renewable energy, and this should be our common direction. As this is critical to matching our energy transition goals, and building resilience in the energy industry. Moreover, we must work to support our common missions for a sustainable and peaceful future for all.”

At the conclusion of his speech, Hanafi stressed that "the Arab countries are open to cooperation with China, and we always strive to increase the volume of cooperation between the two sides in various fields, not only in the narrow and limited commercial field, because what we aspire to is that the relationship between the two sides will turn into the limits of partnerships, and strategic alliances, as China has a promising economic future at the global level."

In parallel, the Secretary-General of the Union participated in the Arab Banking Conference for 2022, hosted by the Arab Republic of Egypt, during the period 18 and 19 May this year, entitled: The repercussions of the international crisis and its impact on economic conditions. This was under the patronage and presence of the Governor of the Central Bank of Egypt, Tariq Amer, Executive Director of the International Monetary Fund, Dr. Mahmoud Mohieldin, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Union of Arab Banks Sheikh Mohamed Jarrah Al-Sabah, and Chairman of the Board of Directors of Banque Misr Mohamed El-Etreby, representing the Federation of Egyptian Banks.

A session entitled: "The risks facing global economic growth in light of the international geopolitical crisis" was held. It was chaired by the Chairman and CEO of Banque du Caire Tarek Fayad, and during this session, the Secretary-General of the Union of Arab Chambers, Dr. Khaled Hanafi, and the Secretary-General of the Arab-Brazilian Chamber of Commerce, Tamer Mansour, and Director of the Department of Economic Integration, League of Arab States, Dr. Bahjat Abu Al-Nasr, spoke.

Speakers in this session discussed the emerging reality as a result of the emergence of new economic and financial alliances and blocs, the decline in global economic growth as a result of the crisis, and the effects of the crisis on poor and highly indebted countries.

Arab Brazilian Chamber delegation visits the Federation of Saudi Chambers and the Chamber of the Sultanate of Oman

A delegation from the Arab-Brazilian Chamber, which included the Chamber’s Secretary General, Tamer Mansour, and the Chamber’s regional advisor to the Gulf Cooperation Council countries, Iraq and Yemen, Shaheen Ali Shaheen, discussed with the President of the Federation of Saudi Chambers, Ajlan bin Abdulaziz Al-Ajlan, ways to enhance trade and investment cooperation between the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and Brazil. During the meeting, which was held at the headquarters of the Federation of Saudi Chambers in Riyadh, they reviewed the prospects for trade and economic cooperation between Saudi Arabia and Brazil and the opportunities available for cooperation between the private sector on both sides. The delegation also handed an invitation to the President of the Federation of Saudi Chambers and Saudi Businessmen to participate in the Arab-Brazilian Economic Forum, which will be held next July 4 in the Brazilian city of San Paulo under the auspices of the Brazilian President and in the presence of a large number of ministers, dignitaries and business owners from both sides.

Al-Ajlan expressed that the visit will open new areas of cooperation between Saudi and Brazilian companies in various fields. He also expressed the Chamber's welcome to participate in the Arab-Brazilian Economic Forum, noting that the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia and Brazil have close relations, and that Brazil is one of the distinguished destinations for Saudi investments, as there are successful Saudi investments in various sectors. He also stressed the interest of Saudi business owners and investors to learn about the available investment opportunities in Brazil. For his part, Tamer Mansour, Secretary-General of the Arab-Brazilian Chamber noted that Brazil is rich in many investment opportunities in many sectors, including energy and mining, calling on Saudi business owners to explore and invest in these opportunities.

In the same context, the delegation of the Arab-Brazilian Chamber visited the Sultanate of Oman, where it met the President of the Oman Chamber of Commerce and Industry, Eng. Rida bin Juma Al Saleh, where they discussed ways to enhance trade and investment cooperation between the Sultanate and Brazil. The delegation also handed over to the Chamber’s Chairman the invitation to participate in the Arab-Brazilian Economic Forum, which will be held on July 4th in the Brazilian city of San Paulo.
